The Georgia state prison at Milledgeville, shown above, was the scene early yesterday of a riot in which one prisoner was killed and 15 wounded. The trouble began when a group of prisoners are reported to have stormed the doors of the second story quarters for men. Superintendent R. H. Lawrence caused the riot to be quelled when he ordered the guards to open fire on the rioters, which had the immediate effect of quieting the men who were returned to their cells.

That came from Mrs. Borg's heart.
As vice president of the Greater Atlanta Poultry Breeders' Association, she visited Eugene Talmadge in the governor's office and here is her description of that notable incident:

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS BY PAUL MALLON.

METHOD WASHINGTON, Aug. 25.—Certain high republican counseiors are supposed to have suggested to Governor Landon an extension of the new method of campaigning with which he has been experimenting. They want him to:

(2) Make no more than four additional speeches.

(b) Embark on a more extensive campaign tour than any presidential candidate has ever tried, devoting six weeks or more to "get-acquainted visits" to every town on a railroad, making only short, frank talks, "thinking out loud," shaking hands, smiling, being himself.

(c) Institute a new kind of a publicity campaign designed to dramatize the Landon personality with human little stories, about his likes, are selected the best rural newspaper correspondent for a few days' visit to New York, thus kicking up a little gust of publicit, for Country Home Magazine and rediscovering the fact that the old-fashioned "ye editor" type of country journalism has been laid away with the tramp printer and the ice cream social on the lawn of the Congregational church. This year's cham-dislikes, habits, etc.

Developments along that line may be expected. Note—The argument is heard increasingly among republican authorities that the Kansan is not dramatizing his opposition to President Roosevelt. His speeches lack great luster, they say. The crowd wants more snappy phrases, more aggressiveness in talk and action, more punch. This, they contend, is necessary to arouse all the Roosevelt opposition and swing it into line behind his leadership. Some concessions may be made to these complainants, but the calm and unexciting tone of the campaign will be maintained.

HESITANCY Some of Mr. Roosevelt's advisers had their fingers crossed when he left for the west. His trip has been curtailed in an effort to make it snappy and straight to the point. (The first stop scheduled was Bismarck, N. D.) At the same time they were As they look at it, Mr. Roosevelt has been getting along all right, and is gambling with fortune in this latest venture. The meeting with Landon is considered an extremely delicate undertaking, requiring very In view of the unusual circumstances, the trip was more carefully planned, step by step, and word by word, than any the President has These arrangements have somewhat allayed apprehensions about the political reaction to the trip, but not entirely.

DEBATE You can start an argument in any capitol corridor by bring-ing up the subject of whether the drouth has helped or hurt Mr. Roosevelt. Democratic arguers can prove it was a typical stroke of Roosevelt luck, because it gave him a chance to demonstrate his theories of federal relief and control. Republican rebutters present an equally firm argument that rising prices of foodstuffs is causing dissatisfaction.

They both may be right, before election day. The exhibition of New Deal relief work is now on; rising prices have only begun. Cities will undoubtedly begin to feel the pinch first. The only political question is not whether the pinch will come, but when. Note—There are some extremely humble people (the Townsendites, for example) who think drouths are a retaliation of providence.

MONOLOGUE This La Follette investigation of civil liberties is a one-man show, but it has some very important stagehands whose names do not appear in the cast of characters. So far as public appearances are concerned, the investigating committee was originally composed of three members. Senator Murphy died. Senator Thomas announced he could not be here during August self. He has no trouble rounding up a quorum. All committee actions are by unanimous consent.

What he is after is the labor situation, particularly in steel. He will go into it next month and it is rather generally expected his unofficial consultants include no smaller personages than John L. Lewis and Mr. Roosevelt himself.

HOCUS-POCUS You may have heard that the empire of Ethiopia was conquered by Mussolini and made a province of Italy, but that is not true. At least not officially. Mr. Cornelius Van Engert still remains in Addis Ababa as our official "minister to Ethiopia." he empire has disappeared.

The State Department, however, has no delusions that this diplomatic absurdity makes any difference. Practical requirements will eventually take Mr. Van Engert away from Addis Ababa. Then no successor will be appointed. This will leave a consular representation there which will constitute de facto recognition of Italy's conquest.

The wheels of diplomacy grind slowly.

Halitosis Endures Only Because the Owner Isn't in Front of It

BY ROBERT QUILLEN. When Bobby Burns prayed for the power to see ourselves as others see us, his prayer was not for himself, that he might see his faults more clearly, but for the imperfect fellows who so urgently needed deflating.

The louse was on a proud lady's neck, not on his. Those who echo his wish usually are prompted by a desire to hurt. They see some poor victim of conceit making a spectacle of himself unaware of his faults and happy in his ignorance and they say: "I wisl he could see himself as he is. If he could realize what a ghastly idiot he seems to others, it would take him down a peg or two." Sometimes the one who does the wishing is the one mistaken. H vision warped by envy or dislike, he sees faults that do not exist. And when he wishes that the object of his malice could see himself as he is he is unwittingly saying: "I wish he could see in himself all of the faults that my jaundiced imagination sees in him."

But while the wish usually is prompted by unkindness, there are its therapeutic value. Understanding sympathy prompts them to say
"I wish old Bill could see himself acting that way. It would help him to snap out of it." Inability to see ourselves as we are is largely a result of not trying.

We muddle along in blissful Ignorance of what others think of us be-cause our complacent vanity never suggests the need of a little helpful of them whit slavers who lurk in every New York doorway waiting to snatch a country girl to a fate which is worse than death. Her husband, self-examination. Helpful it would be.

What man would ever get drunk again if he could see and hear a sound picture of his maudlin, degrading imbecilities? He wouldn't even appear in public till his hurt vanity recovered. How quickly pride would reform people if they could hear them-

It began in the Garden of Eden the day the serpent appeared with the apple. Eve was coy at first, sticking a finger in her mouth, casting her eyes down, and shaking a negative head.

"Knock Knock," said Eve.

"Who's there?" asked the serpent, extending his apple.

"Eden who?" asked the serpent, "Eden who?" asked the serpent.

"Eden who?" asked the serpent.

"Eden if it was good I wouldn't like it," said Eve, refusing the apple again.

But the serpent came around in the afternoon. And extended the apple again. He was pretty firm about it. Eve was getting tired of being coy at first, second or third. Or even at home plate.

"Knock, knock," said the serpent.

"Knock, knock," said Eve.

"Knock, knock," said Eve.

"Knock, knock," said Eve.

"It is all right with you I'll take and her by was game originated. Away back there in the Garden of Eden the day old serp came around with the forbidden apple. One day they were having a game of bridge in the garden out under the apple tree. It was years after the apple incident.

Wright, Yates, Barnes, Everett Qualify for National Amateur

Tommy Wright-The Tennessee Kid-He led the qualifiers at East Lake yesterday as he scored 74-67-141 in the national amateur trials. It was at East Lake in the blustery March winds of 1934 that he played in his first major tournament and fired a 68 against the great field of professionals in the first Metropolitan open.

He was tied for second place with the late Johnny Golden. And ahead of him was Dick Metz, who had a 67 that raw, cold day on the No. 1 course.

The Tennessee Kid was the story that day.

He was pop-eyed with excitement when he finished. I saw him standing there, looking at the scoreboard where his name and his score were strokes ahead of men who were deities to him-Tommy Wright, just out of the caddy house at Whittle Springs golf course in Knoxville.

He had seven threes on his card that day and one deuce. And he finished 3-3-3.

"I dropped two long 'uns," he said, "on 16 and 17." And then he turned to look at the board again with unbelieving eyes. He wore an old sweater and his wrists and his big hands looked red and chapped. Since then he's been going along. He won the Tennessee state a few weeks ago.

And yesterday at East Lake again, on another course, he set a new course record with his 67. He was not in it so strongly when the morning round was done.

But when the afternoon round began, the Tennessee Kid took charge. He must like those East Lake courses. He was five under par in the afternoon.

He had 11 one-putt greens-he had an eagle three on No. 1—he sank a long putt on No. 18 and he finished 3-3.

He's going to shoot for the national amateur. The odds are tremendously against him. But if he can manage to make himself believe he's at East Lake-

And when it's done he's turning professional.

The boy has a living to make. And he wants to make it with golf. Which isn't a bad way-at that.

The Tennessee Kid-he's supplied two great stories with two great rounds at East Lake.

THE YATES BOYS.

There was another rare varn out there on the heated course. Charlie Yates qualified for the national amateur for the fifth straight time.

And Dan Yates, 17 years old, qualified as an alternate. Rarely does one family supply two members to a district squad of qualifiers to a national amateur tournament. Charlie Yates was second to Tommy Wright yesterday. Dan Yates was the third alternate, being close behind Alternate Crawford Rainwater.

Yates' fifth consecutive qualification is something of a feat. He may, if he finds time for some practice, go far in the Garden Hills tournament.

NEWS OF THE REVOLT.

News out of Spain-

"Senora Don Alvaro de Urzais was forced to flee her home because of the bombardment. . . . The former wife of the late Rudolph Valentino, Natacha Rambova, she was married to Valentino . . .

It was a dark, dreary Sunday morning up in Nashville,

Rudolph Valentino and his wife, the beautiful Natacha Rambova, were to arrive. The wrestling promoter and I met them and took them to their hotel. That afternoon we took them for a drive to the Hermitage, home of Old Hickory.

Valentino was quarreling with his film company then. And he was making personal appearances over the country-for a suitable guarantee-and dancing a number with his wife.

The wrestling promoter in Nashville was putting on the Natacha Rambova had a new make-up that day, new for Nashville, Tenn-O-See. Her race was a chalk white. Her lips were a vivid red.

Valentina was quiet, interested, with little to say. There were two small pock marks in that perfect oval face which the ladies loved so well.

That night he made his little talk, in the interest of better films, and they did the tango together. And then the feminine members of the audience fought to get near him, tearing at his hands, his arms, shrieking at him.

And Natacha Rambova stood apart, a quiet smile on her face, while the mob of women fought to get at her man.

"Paulino Uzcudun, reported killed by the communists, said today they wanted to kill him because he wore good suits and smoked good cigars. . . ."

We were in a certain promoter's office in New York two days before a major fight Paulino Uzcudun, the Bounding Basque, was there. I remember best his golden teeth-all his regular ones had been knocked out-and the brand he had, except for a couple of bridge stanchions, were strictly the made-to-measure gold ones.

He took a sort of a pride in himself. No one could knock him out. Max Baer had failed. Everyone failed-execpt Joe

And then Max Schmeling, who three times had failed to knock out Uzcudun, knocked out Louis. News out of Spain-

"Wladek Zbyszko, reported killed in the Spanish revolution, escaped from the borders of Spain. . . .

we were at a cottage on the Cumberland river having a midnight buffet dinner following a wrestling match. Wladek Zbyszko, weight about 240 pounds, was being ragged by a young man who should have known better. Zbyszko started chasing him. The young man dodged around the tables, fled into another room, slammed the door and locked it. Zbyszko didn't slow up. The door flew off its hinges and slammed to the floor. A very frightened young man yelled for mercy.

Y. Charles Dannals Jr., Capital City, Crawford Rainwater, East Lake, and Dan Yates, East Lake, were named as alternates, finishing in order behind the first four.

Dan Yates, East Lake, were named as alternates, finishing in order behind the first four.

GREAT 67.

Wright with a 67, five strokes under par, set a new competitive course record to win first place. He had a 37-37—74. 32-35-67—141, for the two rounds. Charlie Yates finished two strokes behind for second place, and his 143 was one stroke over par for the 36 holes. Tommy Barnes had a 149, for third place -ith Everett, the long knocking Rome southpaw, winning the fourth place at 150.

It was Wright's first win in a national sectional qualifying round.

Yates qualified for the fifth straight time in the national. after failing six years ago in his first attempt. Barnes has played in four sectional qualifying rounds, but Tuesday was his first win. Everett, playing from the Druid Hills club won a place for the second successive year.

Wright played sensational golf in the afternoon round. He was well on the first green with his second and dropped a long putt for an eagle three. He was even par for the next two holes, but fired birdies at four and five accession and was four strekes because of the second to the holes, but fired birdies at four and five in succession and was four strokes below par for five holes. He finished the nine in perfect figures and medal of 32, four strokes under par.

Charlie Yates also had an eagle three on the first hole, but dropped a stroke to par on the second and went two strokes over on the third and was one stroke down to Wright going to the fourth hole, where he lost another. Yates never recovered the lead Leading by three strokes at 27, Wright picked up another stroke on par at 29 with a birdie three. It was his seventh birdie of the day. The 30th and 31st were pars for Wright, but he overdrove the 32nd green and went one over par. The next three holes were played in par green and went one over par. ### NEW RECORD.

NEW RECORD.

Wright played one of his best holes at the 36th. He needed a par four for a 68. The 20-year-old Tennessee champion drove into a trap short of the green. It was one of his longest drives of the day. He blasted out well on the green and dropped a 10-foot putt for the birdie and a 35, one under par, for the nine, a new course record for the 18 holes and one under par for the 36 holes.

Wright's putting was his long suit. He had seven one-putt greens on the first nine of the afternoon and added another four on the last nine, and 11 one-putt greens for the afternoon 18 holes. It was one of the greatest exhibitions of putting ever seen on the hibitions of putting ever seen on the No. 2 course. Wright's fine chip shots to the greens and his steady driving well down the middle, were ther features which combined to give him medal honor for the day.

Leonard's relief work was what the doctor ordered and the Crackers defeated the Smokies, 3 to 2. And by so doing they took a lead of two games to one in the series which ends tonight, with Bobby Durham facing probably Lefty Leo Moon or Garcia, new Smoky right-hander. But the Smokies had on their batting clothes in the ninth. Three of the hits were real drives and the Texas leaguer by Webb was no fluke.

The fans were inclined to boo Manager Moore for taking Williams out, but it was the logical thing to do under the circumstances.

It was simply unfortunate that Williams weakened in the ninth after pitching eight innings of brilliant baseball. Leonard's relief work was excellent.

Gy G. A. PHILLIPS.
NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—(A)—A strong demand for United States government obligations brightened an otherwise quiet and level bond market On a turnover of $2,240,000, par value, the largest in several weeks, all maturities of federal bonds rose sharply. Twenty issues, including all of the guaranteed list, established new highs decisively, and closed at the best levels of the day. Fresh strength in this division of the market was taken in investment quarters as further confirmation of quarters as further confirmation of the general belief that Secretary Mor-genthau will confine his activities in the money market on September 15 to refunding the $500,000,000 maturing notes. The fact that he was non-commital on this point when he an-nounced that details of the quarterly financing program would be made pub-lic on Sentember 8 apparently was lic on September 8 apparently was well taken. Every one of the listed government bonds was active except registered is-sues, a feat rare indeed during the past few months when interest alternated between short and long-term maturities and seldom, if ever, was concurrent in both groups. Treasury 3s of 1946 proved the most sought after today, closing 6-32ds of a point net higher at 106.2 on sales of $504,000, par value. Gains in others ranged from 1-32d of a point to 7-32ds. Corporate bonds, while fairly steady, lacked feature. Issues ending minor fractions to around a point higher included Alleghany 5s at 93 1-4, Anaconda Copper 4 1-2s at 106 1-4, Chesapeake & Ohio 4 1-2s at 124, Hiram Walker 4 1-4s at 107, and Walpast few months when interest alter-guay 6s lost 1 3-4 at 53, German (Dawes) 7s yielded 7-8 to 34, and modest improvement was registered by Cuban 51-2s and Japan 6 1-2s. Sales of all bonds totaled $8,158,-000, par value, compared with $6,305,-000 the day before.

The Associated Press averages ranged from a decline of .3 of a point in the foreign group to an advance of .1 of a point in the rails, industrials and utilities.

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—(P)—The stock market browsed in recovery pastures today but selected its provender with extreme care.
With the aid of steels, amusements and sugars the list managed to turn in a fan assortment of gains. The latter were mostly fractional, however, although a few volatile issues got up more than 3 points.

Transfers totalled 799,930 shares against 803,610 yesterday. The Associated Press average of 60 stocks advanced 1 of a point at 86

LINDY WILL NOT SPEAK AT WORLD PEACE MEET

BRUSSELS, Aug. 25.—(P)—Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh, previously announced officially as one of the speakers at the World Peace Congress opening here September 3, today notified the organizing committee he would be unable to attend.

It was reported reliably his name had been announced on the speakers list before his definite acceptance was received. However, in notifying the committee of his regrets and inability to attend, he said previous engagements prevented it.

The committee was understood to be attempting to get the flyer to reverse his decision or to at least send a message to the congress.

Carnegie Medal Sought For Lithonia Rescuer For Lithonia Rescuer The Carnegie medal for heroism is being sought for Ernest Clark, of Lithonia, Ga., who risked his life to rescue two girls, believed to be Atlantans, from drowning in the South river on June 7. The girls were swimming in the river at Panola beach, in DeKalb county. One of them went under and Clark, fully clothed, dived into the water and rescued her, bringing her, unconscious, to the bank. He then dived back in the river and rescued the second girl. In the excitement of the double rescue, the names of the girls were not obtained. Friends of the youth are now trying to locate the girls.

Roundup of Witnesses Is Planned as Probers Move Into Action.

A possibility of additional bombings in Atlanta's milk-price "war" was anticipated by police yesterday shortly after a brick was tossed at the plate glass window of a Pullian street grocery store operated by Israel Zakheim. Detectives today are expected to begin a roundup of witnesses to the bombing of the quarters of the Georgia Milk Producers' Confederation, on Whitehall street, several weeks ago, and also to other acts of terrorism in Atlanta's milk-price "war." Three persons arrested Monday are being held on a charge of suspicion of bombing.

The brick tossed yesterday at the Zakheim store struck a screen above the window pane and fell to the street below. Police quoted witnesses as saying the occupants of a car drove by the store, flashed a light on the front window, and then returned a few minutes later to toss the brick.

The groceryman told police he had sold milk at reduced prices, but recently raised the price of sweet milk to 14 cents a quart and the price of Zakheim store struck a screen above dow a brick to which was attached a note warning the owner to raise milk prices. She denied knowing of any bombings or of any acts of terrorism, police said.

The milk-price "war" flared Saturday, when a bomb wrecked the inte-rior of a grocery on Primrose street. A special police squad has been de-tailed to "shoot to kill" anyone caught in the act of tossing bombs

DUR RADIOS STOLEN

W. A. Mathews was being sought by officers as the result of his indictment on two charges yesterday.

He was accused of larceny of an automobile and larceny after truck FROM PARKED TRUCK
Radios and clothing stolen from parked automobiles were among thefts reported to police yesterday.

Capital City Electric Company had four radios stolen from a truck parked in a downtown parking lot, police said.

He was accused of larceny of an automobile and larceny after trust, it being alleged he took a rented car and "converted it to his own use." Lolan Mitchell, also white, was charged by the grand jury with larceny of a car July 24 which was the property of T. E. Clemmons, of Rome. Mitchell has been arrested.

The progress of justice was speeded.

"Gone With the Wind" Keeps Mrs. Roosevelt Up Late at Night

By Sally Forth.

A MERICA'S first lady, Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, heads the list A of famous writers throughout the land who have reviewed with high praise "Gone With the Wind," Margaret Mitchell's famous epic of the southland. This recognition, alone, is worth its weight in gold. so to speak, for the lovely first lady did not stop with one comment on the book, but has made three comments in "My Day," her daily column appearing in The Constitution.

Mrs. Roosevelt's third mention of the book, which is in its 325th thousandth printing, was climaxed on Monday when she devoted the major part of her column on the book, written from Hyde Park, N. Y., a part of which is quoted here: "I finished Gone With the Wind," by Margaret Mitchell, last night. It is a most interesting picture of the south during the War Between the States, but to me the reconstruction period is far more interesting. It is easy to understand why the women of the south kept + their bitterness toward their northern invaders. The war to them was a sacred cause, and the attitude of the north was practically impossible for them to understand. Sometimes you hear people wonder today why the bitterness has persisted so long, but to me it seems only natural that this book should help to make it vividly clear, even to those who haven't understood it

"The characters, Melanie and Ashley, are very charming—peo-ple you would like to know—but Scarlett and Rhett Butler are the two strongest and most interest-ing people. Scarlett was selfish ruthless to the end, but she did have gallantry, courage and determination. In her rather strange way she did love two people, in the course of her stormy existence. She paid in suffering for the fact that never for one moment was her love un-selfish. She never understood either of the men she loved and so she lost them both, to be left baffled and bitter in her loneli-

Previous to this mention of the book. Mrs. Roosevelt wrote on August 15 from Hyde Park as her first comment, the following: "We reached home for our 8:30 supper last night and everyone went to bed early. I succumbed ing in bed and thought I was going to stop in a half an hour, but 'Gone With the Wind' is not a book you can put down easily! It was 12 o'clock before my light

Her second mention of the book in the course of her reading was on August 21, when she wrote: "After I went to bed last night I started marking my mail, but I always end up by allowing myself time to read something I really enjoy. For an hour I found myself deeply engrossed with the trials which the women who lived in Georgia during the Civil War

"'Gone With the Wind' is a book you would like to read straight through, but since there are so many things which have to be done, I am reading it rather more slowly, and perhaps enjoying it all the more, on this account. If you have not read it, can assure you will find Scarlett O'Hara an interesting character. For pure selfishness and ruthlessness she seems to be almost incredible. But circumstances mould even the little animal she seems to be. CERTAIN young doctor in A CERTAIN young doctor in town, though not so hand-some, tall, or dark, is quite a Beau Brummel with the ladies, and he is really quite ruthles, in some of his romantic affairs. Not so long ago, he became engaged to an attractive young lady in a prominent eastern city and he presented her with an exceptionally large diamond engagement chology in the book."

Several weeks later, the Atlanta doctor met another young lady, whom he liked even better than the one to whom he was en-gaged. He decided to "break it off," so to speak. But he re-membered the ring, and not wanting to lose it, he planned a more tactful meinod. The next time he visited his fiancee in the eastern city he asked her to lend him the ring. "I want to get a much larger one for you. ring isn't worthy of you," he de-clared. The unlucky, or should she be termed the lucky girl, has never seen "hair nor hide" of

ELDERS are continually being "put on the spot," so to by children. The following story bears out this statement in a most amusing manner:

A group of young boys, including John Grant III, Sam Inman, Clark Howell III, Hugh Quin and Billy Appelby, all of Atlanta; Nap Corker, of Canton, and Tommy and Turpen Girrard, of Florida, have been listed among the large group of Fritz Orr's campers up at the Tate Mountain Estates this summer. Among events planned for the boys was a camping trip into one of the near-by mountain ranges which abound the famous north Georgia resort. A camp site having been selected, many side trips made the outdoor life all the more thrilling and exciting for the youngsters. The aforementioned group took one of these trips one day, and were suddenly caught in a downpour of rain. The young campers made for the nearest refuge of shelter, which hapto be an old bridge. Drenched to the bone, the boys with their leader from the camp built a fire to dry their clothes. In the midst of the process a man appeared and in a gruff and

South jumped to the conclusion that the lead was a singleton. He played dummy's ace, then led the queen and, when East followed with a low card, discarded a clab. His intention was thus to force a trumpout of West's hand and insure himself against the loss of a trump trick (in addition to three clubs) if the trumps were three in West's hand and one in East's. But West won the king of diamonds, then laid down the king of diamonds, then laid down the king and a small club. East won and led another diamond and now, wheth-

Friendly Counsel By CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

Dear Miss Chatfield: The girl I love is of a well-to-do tamily. Her parents are old fashioned to the extent that they think it a disgrace for a lady to work. She finished college two years ago and since that time she has sat at home and held her hands. She frankly says she is bored to death but she doesn't dare broach the subject of taking a job because her parents would be shocked. Now here is my problem: I make only a small salary. I believe that in some years' time I will get along in my business but at the present it is out of the question for me to consider marriage. I have present it is out of the question for me to consider marriage. I have figured it out that if my girl could get a position that paid her only a nominal salary we could be married, but I don't know how to bring the matter to a head. We love each other and have an understanding that someday we will take the trip to the altar. Do you think my plan is foolish?

MODERN MAN.

Answer: The plan is not foolish but to sell your idea to a young lady brought up in the tradition that men work and ladies remain idle will be a terrible task. She will drag out a long engagement rather than go to the mat with her parents about breaking a family precedent—leisure for ladies—for she is under their domination. The college education which is suppos-—for she is under their domination. The college education which is supposed to liberalize ideas and break old fashioned fetters fell wide of its mark. The young lady still takes orders from papa and mamma and endures the boredom of idleness rather than broach the subject of getting a job and using her talents.

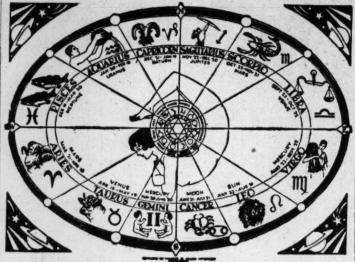

A poor young man even though he is practical, is at a big disad-vantage in dealing with a family that is inflated with false pride and clinging fast to old-fashioned no-tions that have been passed on from one generation to another. If the family were sympathetic with your suit they would probably offer their daughter an allowance that would daughter an allowance that would make it possible for you to get married now. But no, they have other plans for their darling in which you do not figure. They want her to marry a man who can support her in swell style, not a struggling young businessman who can't make out a paper budget that will buy cabbage and corn bread for two.

With love and marriage as an in-With love and marriage as an incentive to ambition a serious young man can get along pretty fast. In the words of an experienced employer: "The head of a big business is always looking for men that he can advance to positions of trust and he could use more than he can find." Then buckle down to business, save your money and make no startling proposition to your girl's old fogey father until you can stand on your feet and announce your intention to feet and announce your intention to marry his daughter and support her adequately.

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Monday.—Up at 7 o'clock this morning to see some of the family off by an early train, and then a rather hurried going over of the mail, for by 10 o'clock we were to be on our way to Saratoga.

An old friend of ours, Major Henry S. Hooker, came up to join Mrs. Scheider and myself and we drove up. We stopped at the outskirts of Albany to look at a house which is being built by a friend and in which am very much interested.

We reached George Foster Peabody's a few minutes after 1. As we sat down to the table the sound of negro voices singing some spirituals floated in very softly. Later came a special song for me, and Mr. Peabody said: These girls are from the Hampton Institute and are specializing in home economics, so they have come to us for the summer."

I asked Mr. Peabody about our own cook, Daisy, from Warm Springs, who is with Mr. Peabody this summer, but found that she, alas, was up The rose gardens at Yaddo, which is the name of Mr. Peabody's place, are open to the public. The large house takes in as guests about

The buildings are nice and the baths seem to be the last word in efficiency and comfort, and I am told, are considered as beneficial as any in Europe for rheumatism, arthritis, neuritis and heart trouble.

By 4:30 we were at Camp Saratoga, where another friend of mine is working. He had asked us to see the transient camp, which is under the direction of the National Park Service, and to have supper there with him. Now we must go and Join him.

ATTRACTIVE FROCK FOR LARGER FIGURES.

Here is an utterly delightful afternoon frock that will carry you through visits, concerts, informal teas, sports or bridge with honors.

The peak feature is, of course, the lovely, softly draped collar gathered under a tab matching those on the sleeves. The side panels of the skirt know their duty and perform it admirably, while the back is cut in one piece, a valuable aid to perfect fitting. You're sure to like the slimming effect and stylish flare of this frock whether it's made for street wear or in an alternate fabric for house or porch. Try printed velveteen, velvet, dotted satin, crepe or silk for afternoon, and poplin, gingham, seersucker or percale for "cleaning days."

Through the mist and rain Diana saw Gay on the white deck and she waved feebly at the slender figure in brown. If only she had had the courage to say, "Turn your back on your debt of gratitude and go as fast as you can to Chris. But you won't. Your conscience won't let you. You're going to have what all women think they want and all your love will be wasted."

The crowded skyline receded the crowded skyline receded the carbefore a low rambling Spanish house with a red tile roof built upon the canal. Flowers grew in profusion and the tall palm trees waved in the breeze. A vine, vivid with pink blosms, covered one side of the house.

The crowded skyline receded through the veil of rain. Passengers brushed past, talking and leaveners brushed past, talking and laughing. The fog horn had a melancholy note.

Gregg would come first, his wishes, as demands. Diana would be an unwanted visitor.

Through the mist and rain Diana way Gay on the white deck and she waved feebly at the slender figure in forown. If only she had had the courage to say, "Turn your back on your lebt of gratitude and go as fast as "My house?" She smiled. "Of course I do."

soms, covered one side of the house. Gregg asked, "Can't you say any-thing?"
And Gay laughed. "Is it mine? Am

I really going to live here?"

He pointed to the yacht. "And there's the Fidelis."

With Gregg beside her, she walked through the house, upstairs and down upon the tiled floors. The furniture had either been imported or was hand-made. There were draperies and plaques from Spain and on the patio there were tables and chairs and divans be-neath wide umbrellas.

Dressing for dinner, she looked at meath wide umbrellas.

Dressing for dinner, she looked at the wide colorful room thinking that in years to come she would remember the first day she saw it. It looked strange now and a little unfriendly but in time it would probably be the most familiar room in the house to her.

As the days went on and she saw provisions being taken aboard the Fidelis, she thought again of how possessive Millicent and Gregg were toward her. They were not intentionally so, although they made her plans for her and even suggested what clothes she should wear. But the days were so full she had little time to think, and it was only at night when she turned her eyes toward Nassau y from you, Chris. You would never tell me what I must or must not do as if I were an incorrigible child. You said I'd always be free with you."

They were going to the married on Monday. The ceremony was to be a simple one with only Millicent and the clergyman's wife as witnesses. Gay would wear the long cream colored lace dress and a big hat. After the ceremony they would have luncheon and go aboard the yacht.

Gay wrote to her mother and Penny. It was odd and sad, she thought, how disconnected she felt from them which some persons call "ice kings," though they are known commonly as Ice king is a rather good name. The big animal is lord of the north-land animals. No other can stand against him. Arctic foxes follow him against him. Arctic foxes follow him about, hoping to get leavings from his feasts, but they are afraid to get in the reach of his claws or sharp teeth. Whales are far more bulky, but they have little to do with the ice king, except to serve as food when he finds them dead on the shore.

Other names of the polar bear are sen king, sea bear, Greenland bear and ice bear. All tell something about the big animal, but to call him a Greenland bear is putting him too much in one place. Polar bears are common about they are also common around Hudson bay and in several other parts of the northland.

The polar bear is not the biggest member of the bear family, but he grows to great size. Sometimes one weighs from 1,000 to 1,400 pounds. From nose to tail, polar bears often measure seven or eight feet. The tails,

In a general way, we may call the fur of a polar bear "white," but often it is yellowish white, and in summer it may even be brownish white. The coat matches the snow and ice fairly

Polar bears have sharp eyes, and Polar bears have sharp eyes, and can see objects at a long distance. They also have a fine sense of smell, and can catch the odor of a seal at a distance of a mile or more.

They eat fish and ourds when they can get them, but seals are their chief victims. When a seal comes up through a "blow-hole" to lie on the ice while taking a nap, the polar bear may slip near and strike a blow with one of his strong paws.

The bears are expert symmers, and

The bears are expert swimmers, and The bears are expert swimmers, and can make speeds up to four or five miles per hour, which is faster than the best Olympic swimmers can go. The polar bear uses his front paws for swimming, getting little help from his hind legs which are spread out behind. Sometimes he captures a seal or a fish while swimming under water, Polar bears are lords of the ice animals, but they have resson to fearmals.

Polar bears are lords of the ice animals, but they have reason to fear men. Unless they are very hungry, or have been wounded, or have cubs which they think are in danger, they seldom attack men. They have something to fear from the spears of Eskimos, but not nearly so much as from rifles which white men have taken to the Northland.

When Ula saw the ape-man racing to her, an exultant light of hope flashed in her eyes, to be dimmed immediately by terror. "No! No!" she gasped; "you can't save me now. It's too lategaspen; you can't save me near me. This thing will late! Don't—don't come near me. This thing will get you, too!"

The mighty Tarzan gave no heed to her warning. Instead he plunged into the midst of those twining. Instead he plunged into the midst of those twining clutching fronds. He tugged at the leaves which enfolded Ula Dale, but they only tightened their grip. Then the outer leaves of the hungry plant

HUMAN RIDDLES

That Have Vexed the World

But if he was shot by another, what could possibly have been the motive for the crime?

While serving as president of the Reading railway, Mr. Gowen in 1873 had been made aware of the existence of a powerful secret order among the miners in the anthracite coal properties controlled he his railway. This ties controlled by his railway. This society, composed mostly of foreign miners, was known as the "Molly Marnires". Gowen determined to break up the upon a chair alongside. About the dead lawyer's head the carpet was covered with blood which was all over the face and coagulated in the eyes. Behind the right ear was a bullet hole. Several feet away was a new pearl-handled revolver, evidently never before fired.

Gowen determined to break up the organization. He engaged a corps of detectives who, with the state officers, waged against the "Molly Maguires" a guerilla warfare that lasted for nearly a year. Then Gowen placed the case in charge of James McParlan, a clever detective, who, disguising himself as a miner entered the articles. miner, entered the anthracite regions,

Arkwright, Wilkie Confer With Roosevelt at White

With Roosevelt at White House.

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS. WASHINGTON, Aug. 25.—Continuation, temporarily at least, of the contractual relationship between the Tennessee Valley Authority and utility companies of the southeastern area for distribution of TVA power after the present contract expires on November 3 was agreed upon today by President Roosevelt during a White House conference with Preston S. Arkwright, of Atlanta, president of the Georgia Power Company, and Wendell Wilkie, of New York, head of Commonwealth Southern.

Calling at the White House during the day, the Atlanta man and Mr. Wilkie, whose company directs operating policies of utilities in Georgia, and many good but misguided people in half a dozen surrounding states, by a count as accurate as possible under the frenzied circumstances, between 5,200 and 5,300 letters and post cards have been received during the week of The Constitution's knock knock contest.

And, thanks to the relenting spirit of the powers that be, the knock knock contest closed last night, with the names of the last day's winners and the winner of the $5 prize of the week announced today.

Here are a few vital statistics which were figured out last night at the contest content of the contest close of the contest.

PARIS, Aug. 25.—(P)—The ministry of colonies ordered an investigation today of rumors that Abd-el-Krimes, of the Riffs, had escaped from the Isle of Reunion.

The newspaper Le Matin published the period of the Moroccan chieftain had eluded French authorities and fled the island in the Indian ocean for an "unknown destination."

The colonial minister asserted the governor of Reunion would have telegraphed immediately if the Riff leader, who sought to drive out the Spaniards.

Abd-el-Krime assumed leadership of the turbulent tribes of the Riff—a mountainous inland section south of Spaniards.

It's no use, men! We can't steal the FRESHNESS of Double-Mellow OLD GOLDS!

OUTWITTED AT LAST! Those three "bad actors" . . . Dryness, Dampness and Dust ... who steal the freshness and fragrance of cigarettes foiled by the O. G.-Men!

To protect those rich and rare prize crop tobaccos in Double-Mellow Old Golds, the Old Gold folks have created a double Cellophane package; a package that's both weather-tight and dust-proof.

TWO jackets of the finest moisture-proof Cellophane guard the freshness of Old Gold's prize crop leaf . . . like a miser guarding his gold.

It takes "next to no time" to open these two jackets. But, Boy! what a difference that extra jacket makes in the freshness of the cigarettes!
